

Source

Glubinka (Russian: Глубинка; English: Outback) underwater swimming masks are distributed by rubber goods company Kievguma (Ukrainian: Київгума; English: Kiev Rubber) in Kiev, the capital of Ukraine, which was once a Soviet republic. The mask may now be purchased from several Ukrainian online retailers, including Bars.org.ua, Lodo4ka.com.ua, Pramarket.com.ua, Prom.ua and Start-odessa.com.ua.

Measurements

Size	Skirt width	Skirt height	Capacity	Weight

Description

Classic wide visibility diving mask equipped with oval-shaped tempered glass window, demountable metal rim and nostril-pinching accordion bosses for relief of underwater ear pressure. Fits most facial types, priced affordably, head-strap cradle delivered unsplit.

- Colour: Green skirt and strap.
- Material: Window — tempered glass. Skirt— high quality, non-toxic rubber. Rim — stainless steel.

Antecedents

The Glubinka mask prototype may have been the 1970s Russian-made Mosrezina 49607 mask (above). Such masks often appear on the Russian online auction site Avito.ru.

The current version of the Kievguma Glubinka mask resembles the Spine Neptun (Russian: Нептун; English: Neptune) mask (below) made in the Russian city of Yaroslavl. Both models feature corrugated ear-clearing bosses and ellipsoid lenses.

